YOU ARE THE HEART OF THE EVENT

WHAT IS ENDURO?

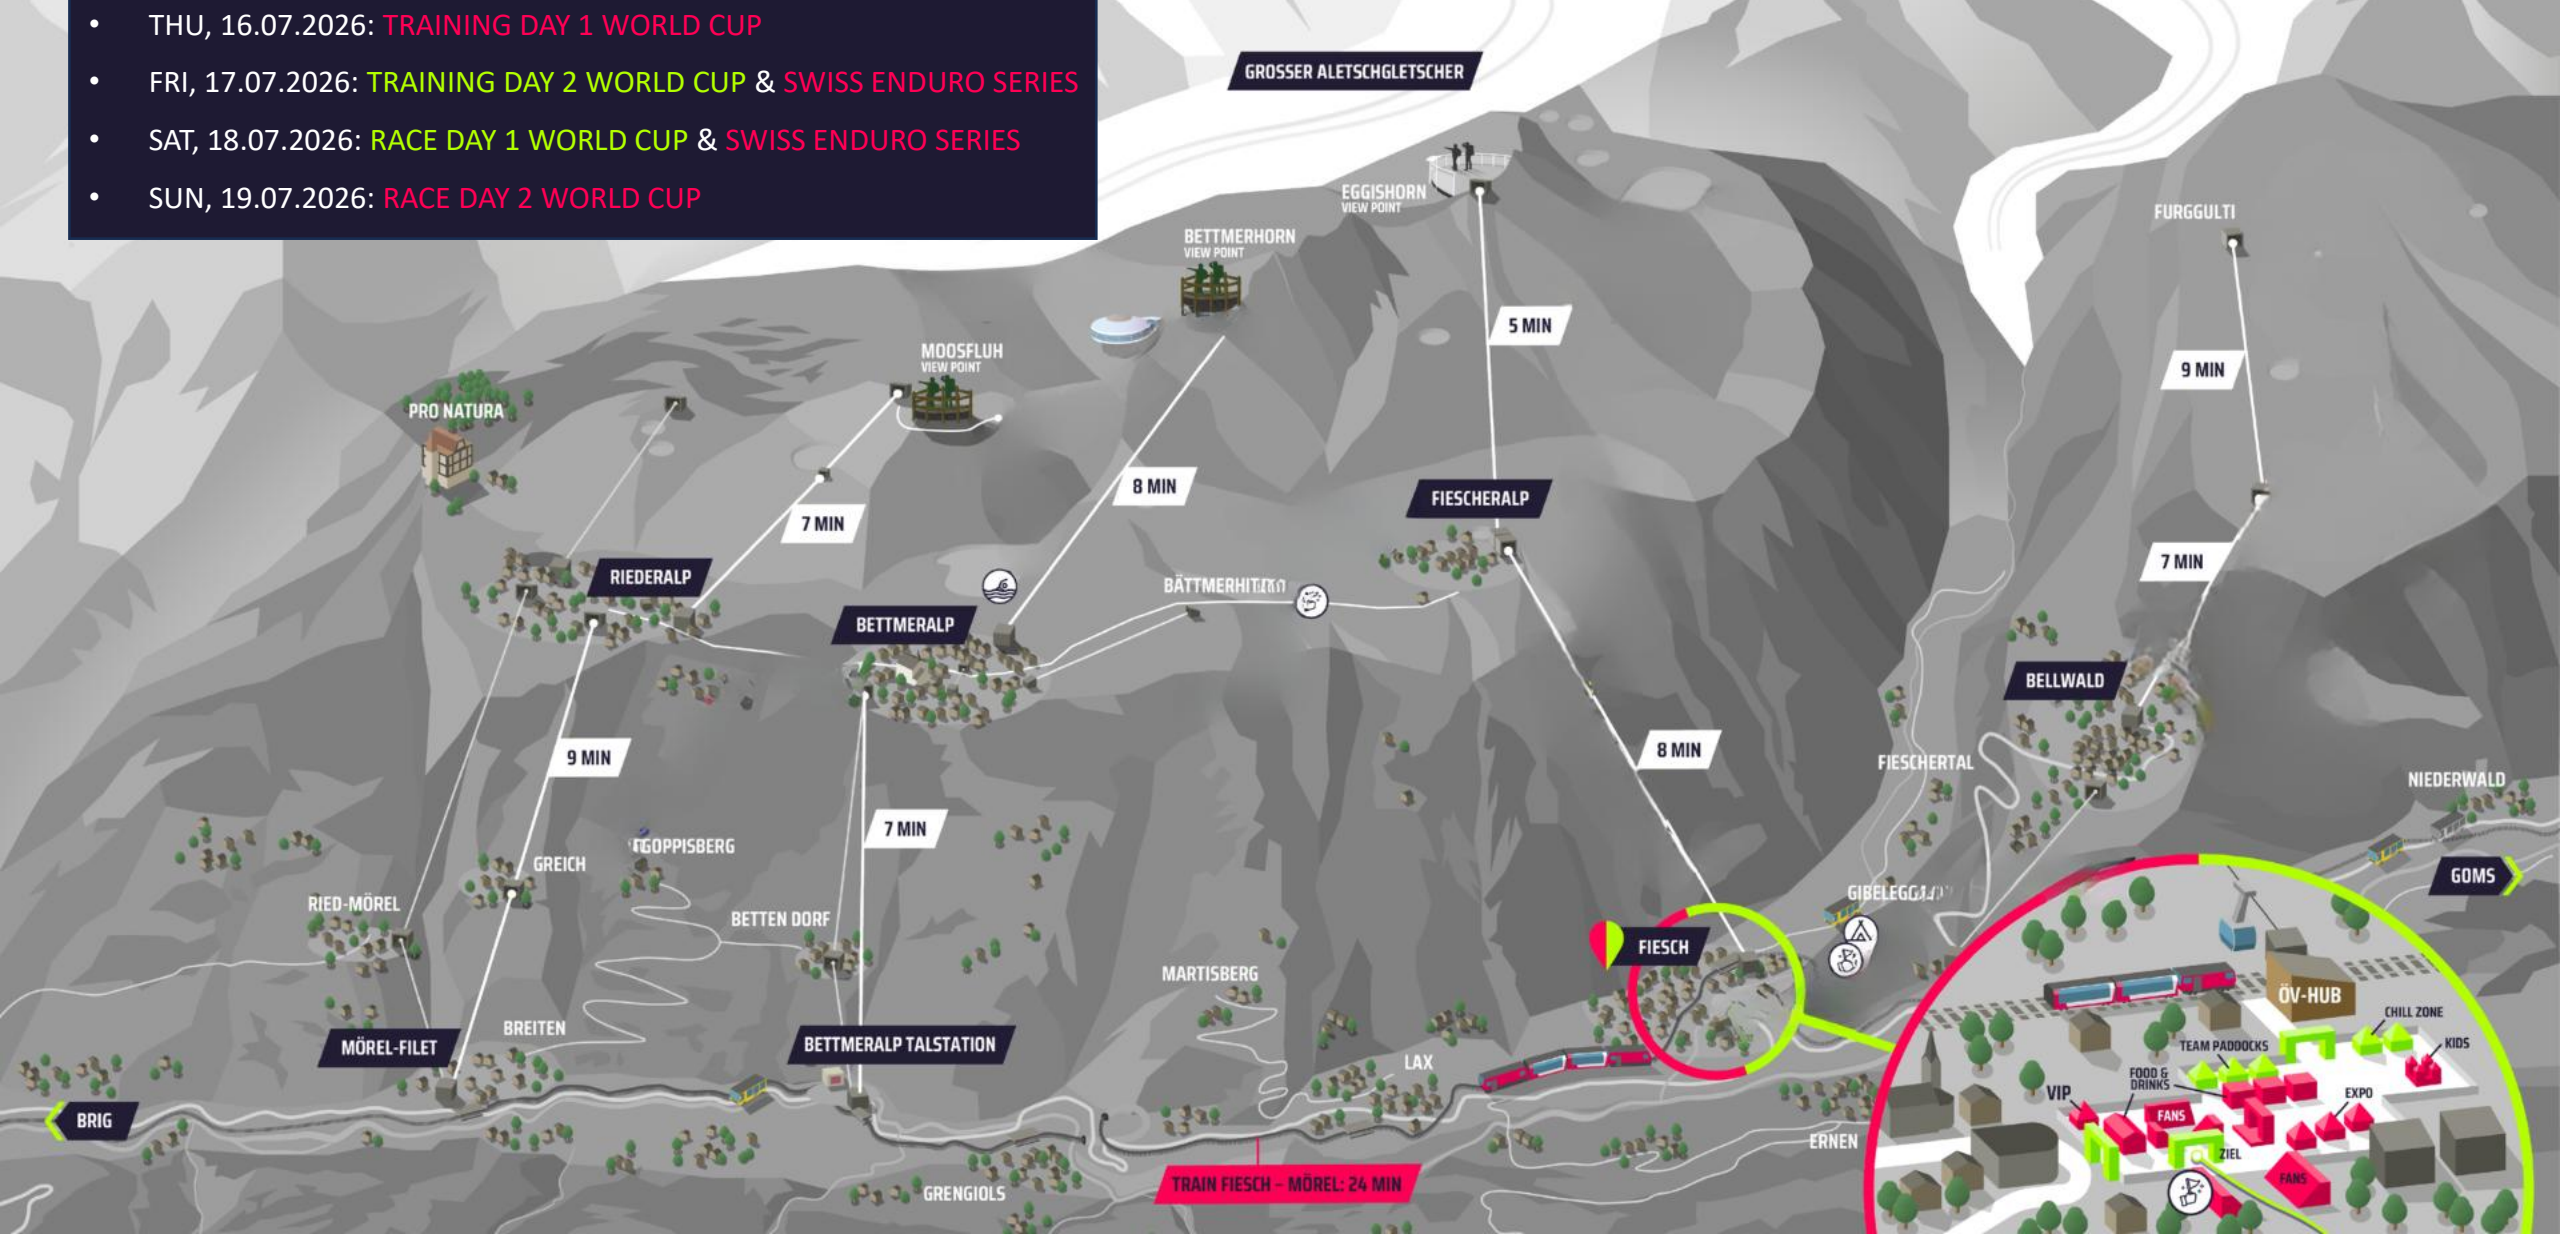

An enduro race is a special type of mountain biking. It is a mix of downhill and cross-country. Enduro mainly tests the versatility and endurance of the participants. Typically, an enduro race consists of one large loop. The overall course of an enduro race is made up of different stages connected by transfer sections, with lifts also used to cover parts of the route. The enduro races, starting and finishing in Fiesch, lead over action-packed trails through the impressive landscape of the Aletsch Arena with Riederalp, Bettmeralp, Fiesch-Eggishorn and across to Bellwald.

- Route figures
 - 1 large loop
 - Over 3,000 metres of descent
 - 4-8 stages depending on category
 - 15 - 25 km race route
 - 5 mountain lifts in use
- Roll Out / Stages
 - Individual start
 - Start interval 30 seconds
- Individual race time ca. 5h
- Flow-through time approx. 4h
- Race operations 08:00 – 17:30

The exact route may only be announced 1 week before the race.
